Giving the genealogy from the beginning in this country of this extended family for several generations along with its close alliance with such families, its kindred by blood bearing such names as: Petit, Aten, Hull, Vandewater, Van Alst, Beekman, Dougherty, Fine, Coe Messerole, Stryker, Stockton, Veghte, Quick, Gracie, Runyon, Titus, Voorhees, Schenck, Van Zandt, Paynter, Mersereau, Hunt, Janney, Ten Eyck, Scudder, Conselyea, Onderdonk and Hageman. WJS, 1906

Biographical Note

William J. Skillman was born on April 19, 1835 at Ten Mile Run, Somerset, New Jersey, the third of five children born to Jacob Runyon Skillman and Mary Jones Scudder. Skillman was a farmer in Franklin, Somerset, New Jersey and in 1863 graduated from the New Brunswick, New Jersey Theological Seminary of the Dutch Reformed Church. From 1863 to 1868 he was pastor of the Reformed Church at Macon, Lenawee, Michigan. He served part of the time the Congregational (afterward Presbyterian) Church of Raisin. From 1868 to 1872 he was pastor of the Reformed Church in South Bend, Saint Joseph, Indiana; and from 1872 to 1883 pastor of the First Reformed Church of Bethlehem at Albany, New York. From 1883 to June of 1894 Skillman served as pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Sioux Falls, Minnehaha, South Dakota. He served for nearly two years alternately the Presbyterian Churches of Dell Rapids and Flandreau; was acting professor of Greek and English literature in the Northwestern academy at Orange City, Iowa. For a few months at the opening of 1886 Skillman took full charge of the First Reformed Church of Sioux Falls where he remained until June, 1894 when he removed to Philadelphia having accepted the pastorate over a large congregation at that city.

William J. Skillman was united in marriage on June 4, 1863 by the Reverend J.S. Lord of the Reformed Church of USA to Susan Eleanor, daughter of Hartshorne Willett Gilliland and Ann Brown. Mrs. Skillman was born on August 23, 1841 at New York City; and died on January 26, 1909 at Philadelphia. Mrs. Skillman was a teacher and vice-principal in the public schools of New Brunswick, New Jersey. The couple is buried at the West Laurel Cemetery, Philadelphia.

William and Susan Skillman were the parents of nine children; Mary, wife of Francis Marion Hatch, Willett Runyon, Ernest Dumont, Herbert, Regner, Anna Francesca, Arthur Davenant, Lionel Gilliland and Edith.

REV. WILLIAM JONES SKILLMAN.

By Tobias A. Wright.

In the death of Mr. Skillman, which occurred in Corona, Borough of Queens, N. Y., February 23, our Society loses one of its useful workers. After a ministry of over fifty years in the Re- formed Dutch Church he retired to spend the closing years of his life largely in gathering and arranging genealogical records of his own and allied Dutch families, many of which have appeared in the pages of this magazine. Possessed of a wonderful faculty for finding missing links, he succeeded in unraveling tangles that had long baffled others. A special intuition seemed to guide him on the ancestral trail, and hundreds of the present generations are indebted to him for about all they know of their early Dutch progenitors. A beautiful pen-printed and illuminated volume of his unpublished genealogical notes is indicative of the painstaking care displayed in all his work. This collection he generously presented to the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society and may be seen in its library.

At a time of life when most men cease to labor, Mr. Skillman continued his contributions to religious literature. The infirmities of age rested lightly upon him, and his genial kindly personality was a joy to his friends and an inspiration to young men. He died at the age of 79 and his long and useful life was well worthy of emulation. The genealogical records of the Skillman family, compiled by him, may be found in The New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, beginning in vol. 37, page 22.

The collection was purchased by three Skillman descendants, Jay Edward Skillman, John Earle Skillman and Michael Jeffrey Wrona from Kinsey Baker of the Book Haven, at 2022 Marietta Avenue, Lancaster, Pennsylvania for the amount of $350.00. The intent was to preserve the collection and pass it on to the Archibald S. Alexander Library at Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey.

According to Mr. Baker it was purchased in 1991 from long time friend and book and manuscript dealers Mr. and Mrs. Fisher Ames Buell, Jr. son of Fisher Ames and Blanche D. Buell (21 September 1914 – 23 March 1994); Nancy Lincoln Buell, daughter of Richard and Ada Culver Lincoln (28 November 1919 – 22 December 2002) Hickory Ledge Books, Mystic, Connecticut.

The acquisition of the Skillman collection by Mr. and Mrs. Fisher Ames Buell is unknown to this writer, although, a letter in the collection from the Reverend's grandson Maurice Harrison Skillman, of White Plains, Westchester, New York, could be a clue how the collection passed into the hands of a commercial solicitor.

(Baker, 2010) I contact the Skillman descendants from their presences on the internet. "In the first box I discovered an archive of well over a thousand pages of paper (?), including manuscript genealogical and historical notes, manuscript histories of various family member s and letters about numerous generations of Skillman's both in England and later, here in America. The American history/genealogy begins with Thomas sailing from Portsmouth in the mid-1600's...

There seems to be several important references to an early 1600's expedition under Colonel Nicolls. It would take some time to go thru all of it, but the manuscript material appears to mostly from the turn of the century (1900) and probably most is in the hand of the person whose name appears over and over in regards to the archives, the Reverend William Jones Skillman. Addresses include those in Philadelphia and New York City. A number of the manuscript writings also pertain to religious philosophy; presumably in the Reverends own thoughts." KB, 2010.
